Individual Project - Chalk501.com

I created an application that makes scoring steel-tip darts effortless. The interface utilizes an SVG graphic that allows the user to press a button that looks exactly like a dartboard to register their score. Using passport authentication and PostgreSQL dart players can keep track of their statistics.

Client Project - The Conscious Shopper

The Ethical Blogging App allows users to search for stores in their area that share the ethical guidelines and values of the Conscious Shopper and the community they hope to reach. The app offers users several different ways to connect with these businesses based on location by a map that shows the user's distance from the store and by category of goods found in the store.
